

WASC 125

WBI 49

MAJOR GENERAL CB BLACKENBURY

SUPERINTENDENT NCPF

1880-1885

Portraits of the Superintendents

In 1787 the Gunpowder mills were taken over by the Crown under the direction of Major William Congreve, then deputy controller of the Royal Laboratory at Woolwich.

For many years, the Waltham Abbey works was known as the Royal Gunpowder Factory. After the Second World War, the site became a research establishment with a number of different titles.

These photographs record the directors and superintendents of the site spanning an uninterrupted period from 1845 until the site closed in 1991.

These venerable gentlemen effectively shaped the course of our history.

WINDOW & GROVE

63^A BAKER STREET, W.

WINDOW & GROVE,
PHOTOGRAPHERS TO THE ROYAL FAMILY.
63^A BAKER ST. PORTMAN SQUARE,
LONDON, W.

THE NEGATIVE OF THIS PHOTOGRAPH IS PRESERVED
FROM WHICH ENLARGEMENTS OR FURTHER COPIES
CAN ALWAYS BE OBTAINED

MAJOR-GENERAL C. B. BRACKENBURY.

SUPERINTENDENT R. C. P. F.

— 1880-1885 —