

On Monday evening, about nine o'clock, three of the powder-mills at Waltham blew up, but happily no lives were lost.